SCHOOL REPORT.

The school board herewith submit their annual report. The progress made in the several schools compares favorably with past years. The teachers employed were with hardly an exception graduates of some high school or normal school, or both, and their methods of instruction were generally satisfactory. They were without an exception zealous in their work, and the amount accomplished was in proportion to their proficiency, tact and support. We very much regret that more of our children cannot receive the discipline and instructions of teachers of a larger experience than we have a right to expect under present conditions. So far as we know the pupils have been orderly, and have given the teachers very little trouble outside the schoolroom, and the great respect shown the teachers in most of the schools was very noticable. In No. 4 school, there are a few boys who evidently think it smart to give impertinent answers, and otherwise show disrespect for the teacher. Such pupils would make a better appearance at least, to be placed under the care of a teacher of sufficient experience to bravely meet and judiciously treat such improprieties.

Knowledge obtained from books is only one of the many benefits we expect our children to acquire from the common school. Promptness, dispatch, obedience and good morals are equally important as book learning. Children who are always at school in season and every day, those who do not neglect school for anything else, are forming habits that will insure a useful and prosperous life. We wish parents would bear this in mind and encourage regular attendance. If from being a member of a small school a pupil learns to take an hour and a half to do an hour's work in, as is a convenient custom, the habit is very liable to lead to slow going in business matters in this age of hustle. The safety and happiness of the people demand that our children be taught obedience. The future of each individual child hangs on this one point. An obedient child is pretty sure to develop into a loyal citizen, and thus avoid the confusion, dangers and humiliation of being forced to abide the government under which he lives.

Too much stress cannot be put upon the importance of checking the multitude of little things that arise from day to day in the schoolroom, which though trifling of themselves if allowed to pass, will lead to dishonesty and untruthfulness. The teacher's watchful eye, and promptness to act may save much unpleasantness. Much credit is due the teachers and pupils, who from term to term are constantly adding something to make the schoolroom a little more attractive. Pictures and drawings in profusion decorate the walls of every schoolroom.

The tidy appearance generally on our visits was very pleasing. The pupils of No. 1 school, with the assistance of their teacher, Miss Clark, procured for that school a dictionary, clock and three or four books on interesting subjects.

There have been no text books introduced in the past year. The supplies are incidental expenses and new books to replenish text books already in use. Repairs have been made on No. 4 schoolhouse to the amount of $20.60. If our schools are not all that we could wish, it is our duty to put aside all personal interests and see that our appropriations are used for the greatest good of the greatest number. To raise the standard of our schools, means to us a better condition of everything that goes to make a thriving and prosperous town. To be able to do this there is a work for each one of us, and each one must be willing to do his own work. Excellence is never reached climbing by rounds of selfishness, and we hope the time is not far distant when our town will be ready to take steps toward greater progress for our schools.

HORACE R. FIFIELD,
ROSABELLE S. RUGG,

LIBRARY REPORT.

There are 256 books in the library.

In the past year the books have been carefully classified and numbered by the librarian, and new catalogues have been issued. It is the desire of the trustees to place such books in the library as the public wish to read; it would be of great assistance if the patrons would pass in to us names of any books and authors they wish to have procured.

We commend the librarian for the faithfulness in which she has performed the duties of the past year.

MINOT W. HUBBARD,
L. H. GOODNOW,
